VOL. LXIII.-NO. 49.

CAUGHT LAST RIGHT BLACKMAIL-ING A WOMAN.

David T. Saltsman, known as a "verifying agent" in the employ of the Parkhurst society. was locked up at Police Headquarters last night on a charge of extortion. Saltsman was arrested by Central Office Detectives Price and Araken, who say that they caught him in a trap which they had set for his capture.

Naltzman is 24 years old and resides at 122

East Twenty-seventh street. On the east side of the city he is known as "the minister," getting the name on account of his connection with a Baptist Church in Philadelphia, where it is said he is well known.
Saltzman volunteered his services to the Parkhurst society during the trial of Police Captain Eakins, and Lawyer Moss agreed to engage him as an investigator and verifier. A small sum of money was allowed him for his expenses. He told Mr. Moss that there were still a num-ber of disorderly houses in the precinct over which Eakins had command, and agreed to get evidence against them. One of those he reported was at 54 Great Jones street. The alleged keeper is Mrs. Minnie Jacobs. With the aid of Agents Burr and Van Ryn, Saltzman got evidence on which a warrant was issued for Mrs. Jacobs. Last Saturday night detectives from the Central Office visited the house and arrested Mrs. Jacobs. On the following day she was arraigned before Magistrate Wentworth in the Jefferson Market Police Court and held in

Mrs. Jacobs told the man to call at her house on Tuesday night. He called according to arrangement and received $10 on account, proming to return for the balance of the money on Wednesday night.

On Wednesday morning Mrs. Jacobs visited her counsel, Lawyer Nathan S. Levy. at 75 Ludlow street, and related the story to him. Lawyer Levy went to Police Headquarters and reported the matter to Chief Conlin. Detectives Price and Arsken were detailed on the case by Capt. O'Brien. Superintendent Dennett of the Parkhurst society was sent for, and when he arrived at Police Headquarters Chief Conlin

Chief. "You can work on the case with our detectives."

When this had been agreed upon, the two detectives went to Mrs. Jacobe's house, accompanied by Dennett. Then the work of setting the trap was commenced.

Clothing was strewn around the room, on all the chairs and other furniture. Then a chair was taken from another room and placed in the centre of the parior. The sofs was piled up with clothing so that there only remained a space sufficient for one person to sit on. The sofs was put opposite a door leading to a closet. Holes were bored through the door for the detectives to peep through. Superintendent Dennett and Detective Price then took their places in the closet, while Detective Archen waited out on the sidewalk. Mrs. Jacobs was ready with four $10 bills, which she, Dennett, and the detectives had marked.

They waited for Salemman until 10 o'clock, and when he did not appear the detectives went away. They had been gone on vashort time when as Mrs. Jacobs says, Salitman arrived and apologized for being late. Mrs. Jacobs made another appointment for Thursday night, saying that she had been disappointed and did not get the money. back to-morrow night at 6 o'clock," said Mrs. Jacobs.

Larly Thursday morning according to Mrs. Jacobe's story, Saltzman called at her house and asked her to make the time Friday night, as he would be busy on Thursday. The date was fixed and the detectives notified.

At 8 o'clock hist night Saltzman called at the house in Great Jones street. Detective Price and Superintendent Dennett were hiding in the closet. Mrs. Jacobs invited Saltzman into the larger and then locked the decked the decked the days. lor and then locked the doo parior and then locked the door.

She sat on the only vacant chair in the room, and asked Saltzman to make himself at home on the sofa. The detective and Dennett, who, when in the closet, were only a few feet away, say that they saw Mrs. Jacobs hand over the four marked $10 bills, and saw Saltzman put them in his vest pocket.

Frice got out of the closet through a side door and joined Arsken on the sidewalk.

As Saltzman passed out he was heard to remark: "I'm in a nurry; I have other patients to visit."

When he reached the sidewalk the detectives took hold of him, one on each side. They held his hands behind him and marched him away to Police Headquarters. He was taken into the detective bursau and searched in the presence of Detectives Price, Arsken, Carrozso, Madden, and Clark, and Capt. O'Brien. The four marked bills were taken from his vest pocket and placed upon the Sergeant'sdeek.

What did you go to Mrz. Jacobe's house for ?" asked Detective Carrozso.

"I went to collect some money for the society," said Saltzman.

"How much did you collect?"

ety," said Saitzman.

"How much did you collect?"

"Forty dollars."

"Where is it?" asked the detective.

"There," said Saitzman, pointing to the marked bills on the desk.

He refused to answer any further questions, and was looked up for the night. To-day he will be arraigned in the Tombe Folice Court.

Saltzman testified yesterday morning before the Excise Commissioners in regard to the Jerome Hotel at 58 University place. The complaint against Henry Mass, the keeper, brought in a police cours by the Parkhurst agents, was dismissed.

Hefore the hearing began one of the Excise Commissioners said he would as soon believe one of the outcast women with whom the Parkhurst men have so much to do as one of their stool pigeons.

norst men have so much to do as one of their steel pigeons.

Saltzman, who said that he was training for the ministry and had lectured for the King's laughters at Atlantic Highlands, was the first Parkhurst man calied. He said he visited the lotel alone on Aug. 21 and registered as Samuel Bauman of Kansas City. Then he went out and brought in a woman, with whom he registered in lead pencil in another book as man and wife. John T. Miller testified that he took to the hotel a woman named Jennie Pike, who was so well known there that the waiter addressed her familiarly and made a remark which the witness repeated.

"Was he the same waiter you testified about in the Compton House hearing?" asked Commissioner Woodman.

"No."

Well, he made the same remark," said the Commissioner.
Jennie Pike was then called by the Commissioners. She said she had never seen Miller and had never been at the hotel. The agents were much excited at the idea that the Commissioners about go behind their story in this way. The Board had tried to find the woman named by Saltsman, but could not. The hearing was adjourned until next Wednesday, when the defence will be heard.

CONSUL BENEDICT'S BODY.

The Come Was Enclosed in a Rox Inscribed "Natural History Specimens,"

On the Atlantic transport steamship Mississippi, which arrived on Thursday from London, was a plain pine box inscribed "Natural History Specimens." The box was consigned to the State Department, in care of I. P. Rossa, and contained, in a metallic coffin, the body of Unarles H. Benedict, late United States Consul at Caie Town, Africa, who died there on June 2 of Bright's disease.

The inscription on the box puzzles Mr. Rossa somewhat. It deceived the Captain of the Mississippi, who had it handled with extra care, because he thought it contained something franks which the State Department wanted to receive intact.

The body was shipped from Cape Town to London on a sailing vessel, and it is conjectured that the inscription on the box might have been intended to deceive the sailors, who are altereditious about sailing in company with KNOWS HE'S INSANE.

George C. Ely Judicially Bectared So on His Own Application.

A jury in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn has declared George C. Ely, the 28-year-old son of the late John R. Ely, the rich distiller, of unsound mind and incapable of caring for himself or managing his affairs. The application to have the question of his sanity judicially investigated was made by the young man himself.
The knowledge that a taint of insanity had run through his family for generations, and that he felt that he was laboring under certain hallu-cinations, caused him much alarm, and finally he came to believe that his mind was ur

When he was summoned to the witness chair and questioned by Justice Bartlett he said that he knew exactly what his application was, and that he had made it deliberately and with the sole idea of protecting his interests in the future. He admitted that he was subject to delusions, and asked that John B. Lord be ap-lusions, and seked that John B. Lord be appointed a committee of his person and the People's Loan and Trust Company a committee of his estate. As Mr. Lord had been his attorney and personal friend for some years, he said he would feel perfectly easy in the future if his affairs were placed in his hands.

Dr. John C. Shaw, an insanity expert, testified that he had made an examination of the petitioner, and found him insans beyond a doubt. The type of mental malady from which he was suffering was a destructive and well-defined one. He was suffering from delusions of persecution, and had freely confessed them, apparently appreciating his condition perfectly.

"He believes," continued Dr. Shaw, "that two women are determined to marry him. From investigation I have found that there is nothing to warrant such a delusion aside from the mental condition of the patient. This has preyed upon his mind constantly, as he does not want to marry. He is firmly convinced that there is a conspiracy to marry him to one of these women. The malady from which he is suffering is of a distinctive type, and it will probably develop as time goes on. he appreciates his condition and the probability of the future."

Similar testimony was given by Dr. Clark Similar testimony was given by Dr. Clark Burnham, another expert.

John R. Ely, the father of the patient, died on Sept. 1, leaving an estate valued at $311,000. By his will the son receives an annuity of $1,200. Objections to the will have been filed by the widow, who was Mr. Ely's second wife, on the ground of mental incapacity. If the will should be set aside young Mr. Ely will receive a third of the estate.

TROY SHOT HIS YOUNG WIFE. He Was a Soldier and She a Bowery Girl When They Married.

Patrick Troy, aged 26 years, a waiter in the Actor House, in a fit of jealous rage shot, and, it is thought, mortally wounded his 20-year-old wife Mary, near the entrance to the Thirtyninth street ferry, in Brooklyn, last night.

He fired two shots from a new 32-callibre re velver and each took effect, one in the left breast and the other in the right shoulder. The woman fell, screaming, at the first shot, and the sound bullet struck her while she was still on the ground.

Policeman Hyland, who was on duty at the ferry gate, rushed to the spot and disarmed while he was about to fire a third shot Troy while he was about to fire a third shot. The woman was placed in an ambulance and taken to the Norwegian Hospital, where the doctors said she would probably die.

Troy had just crossed to Brooklyn on the ferry when he unexpectedly met his wife. According to his statement, he asked her what she was doing there and why she had left home, which is at 150 Twenty-seventh street. She acknowledged, he says that she had come out to keep an appointment with one of her lovers, and didn't care a straw what he thought of it. It was then that he whipped out his revolver and shot her.

Troy came from Ireland with his mother ten years ago, and five years ago enlisted in Company K of the First Artillery, stationed at Fort Hamilton. He made the acquaintance of his wife two years ago in a lowery dance house, and married her in a few days.

They did not live together at first, but he occasionally visited her while on leave of absence from the fort. He finally gave her up altogether, and on May 15, when he got his discharge from the army, he went to Ireland to visit his father. Two months ago he returned and got employment in the Astor House.

Two weeks ago he met his wife and there was a reconciliation. He says that she begged him to take her back and provide her with a home, and that he did so after she had promised to be faithful to him. The police learned that Troy purchased the revolver on Thursday. The woman was placed in an ambulance and

JUDGE MOORE EXHAUSTED.

Has to Stop with the 45th. seing is by no means a pleasant thing at the best, even to a Judge who has been on the bench many years. No Judge gets so hardened as to lack a keen sense of responsibility. There is also a necessity for extreme accuracy in speech and in conducting the proceedings. Even vet-and in conducting the proceedings. Even veteran Judges lose control of their nerves occesionally, especially when there is a necessity for a severe sentence.

The pen under the Court of Sessions in Brooklyn was packed yesterday morning to overflowing with prisoners who had been convicted on various offences and were brought down from the jail for sentence. There were 122 of them all told. Judge Moore, who, as it happened, is in feeble health, aimost broke down long before he had disposed of them. After sentencing forty-five he had to give up the task until another day. Among the cases disposed of was that of Harry Fisher, alias Harry Mortimer, the young personator of females on the stage, who robbed the aged widow. Mrs. Simis, of $3,000 worth of jewels while acting as her attendant, lie got a sentence of six years and eight months in Sing Sing.

The Mechanics' National Bank of New York held $30,000 of his paper last August, and it is held $30,000 of his paper last August, and it is more than probable that other institutions of that city held paper of the concern of which Ward was the manager. Memphis banks and individuals were caught for over $150,000, but in some instances Coi. W. F. Taylor, as President of the Barrel Company, has approved of some of the outstanding paper which is not yet due. One month ago a bank in this city which held $15,000 of the company's paper sent for Coi. Taylor, and he approved it as President.

SEALERS AFTER FRESH FIELDS A Pacific Coast Syndicate to Investigat the Antarctic Bookeries.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18 .- Capt. Archie Hughes, one of the best known Victoria sealers, left for Sydney yesterday to make an investigation of the Antarctic sealing rookeries for a syndicate composed of British Columbia and syndicate composed of British Columbia and California scalers. The Behring Sea catch was on light this year that it won't pay to send the fleet there next year. Hence the men who own the fifty or more schooners have decided to send them for a two years' cruise, the first season to be spent in Japan and the Behring Sea, and the second season in the Antarctic.

Hughes is under orders to charter a schooner in Sydney and make a careful investigation of all the rookeries in the Antarctic. It is believed that the rest which the Antarctic seals have enjoyed for nearly fifty years will give the syndicate a rich preserve.

MORA GETS HIS MONEY.

Payment Made by a Check for 8594,809 or the Assistant Treasurer at New York. Washington, Oct. 18.—After more than a core of years of waiting, Antonio Maximo Mora to-day received through his attorneys payment for the confiscation of his Cuban estate. The payment was made in the form of a check, signed by Secretary Olney and drawn on check, signed by Secretary Oliev and drawn on the Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York. The amount of the check was $594,809.70, which represents Mr. Mora's inter-ests in the indemnity secured from Spain, minus his assignment of 40 per cent, to Dr. Rodrigues and Mr. Nathaniel Faige, his princi-pal representatives, and minor assignments made to other persons. The list of assignments made to Mr. Faige and Dr. Rodrigues has been completed, and the beneficiaries will probably receive their share in a few days. BRITISH IN VENEZUELA.

PROPOSED MILITARY ROAD IN THE AMERICAN CONCESSION.

Both Great Batain and Venezueta Will Probably Strengthen Their Posts at Urnan-Chamberlain's Determination to Hely Upon the Moral Influence of Maxim Guas to Hold the British Position-No Reply to Bayard's Reference to Our Position Under the Monroe Doctrine.

LONDON, Oct. 18 .- It is ascertained on high authority that the memorandum in relation to Venezuelan affairs, presented by Ambassador Bayard to the British Foreign Office in August ast, embodies for the first time in diplomatic correspondence a definition of the so-called United States regarded the acquisition of territory by European powers on the American continent as a menace to republican institutions which would not be encouraged by the American people. It is understood that to this communication no reply, beyond a formal acknowledgment, has yet been given, but that a more detailed reply has been promised at an early

The St. James's Gazette, referring to the action of the Combined Court in British Guiana in declining to vote money for the purpose of purchasing Maxim guns, in accordance with the despatch sent by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Sec. retary of State for the Colonies, on Sept. 7, says the despatch was followed by a cablegram Governor of British Guiana, directing him to obtain without delay a vote for the purchase of two Maxim guns, one of them to be stationed at Uruan, or elsewhere on the frontier where the Venezuelans may attempt to cross. The Gazette

"Mr. Chamberlain has decided that the frontier within the Schomburgk line shall be held by force, if necessary."

Regarding the attitude of the newspapers in British Gulana in ridiculing Mr. Chamberlain, the Gazette sava:

"Mr. Chamberlain is, a better judge of the moral influence of a few Maxim guns than are the attorneys of absentee sugar planters." WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.-The aggressive policy of the British Government in Venezuela, as outlined in the despatches to-day from London, has caused comment in diplomatic circles. In some quarters it is taken as an indication that her Majesty's Government will not under any circumstances arbitrate a foot of the territory in dispute between England and Venezuela to which the former lays claim. Whether the fortification of the frontier at Uruan will be and the Venezuelans cannot at present be foretold. Uruan is a point which is occupied by the forces of both Governments. The British hold the right bank of the river and the Vene guelans the left. The military posts of the two Governments are situated at the junction of three rivers, the Cuyani, Uruan, and Yuruari. No overt act, it is said, is likely to follow the planting of one or more Maxim guns on the British side of the Uruan, provided the British stream, which they regard as the limit of their possessions. While the Venezuelans will look with strong disfavor upon Great Britain's action, they will not it is said, cross the river, or so conduct themselves as to justify the British in crossion. The Venezuelan Government will, in all probability, send national troops to this point, but this, it is believed, will be a mere precautionary measure, and not with any intention of engaging the British forces. If the suggestion of the Right Hon, Joseph Chamberlain, the British Secretary of State for the Colonies, that a road be cut from Port Barima to the Cuyani River, is adopted the United States are likely to be drawn into the affair, inasmuch as the proposed road will run through a part of the territory recently granted by the Venezuelan Government to the American syndicate. All this territory is claimed by her Majesty's Government, and this claim the Venezuelans ridicule. The American syndicate is making its arrangements to develon in Venezuelans ridicule. The American symmetries is making its arrangements to develop its concessions, and it is evidently constrained to believe that the United States Government will see that it is protected in its rights.

The new developments in Venezuela have had believe that the United States Government will see that it is protected in its rights.

The new developments in Venezuela have had the effect of calling attention anew to the report, telegraphed from Rio Janeiro several days ago, that a body of British troops were marching through Brazilian territory on their way to Venezuela. It is now believed by weil-informed diplomats that this report is well founded; that the force in question consists probably of a limited number of British police in British Guiana: that they have marched in a southerly direction, along the line of the Esquibo River, until they reached the neutral territory in dispute between Great Britian and Brazil, and that they are now crossing this with a view of entering a part of Venezuela not occupied by the native troops. If it shall be shown that this is really the case, the purpose of the British Government in sending this force into Venezuela can only be conjectured, but it is not doubted that a definite purpose lies behind it.

It is learned to-day that the proposed road between Port Barima, which lies in the northerly part of the British possessions in Venezuela near the Orinoco River, to the Cuyani River, a distance of about 160 miles, was first suggested half a dozen years ago by the Government at that time decained to vote the money to construct the road, and the proposition now to do what was denied years ago is regarded as another indication that the development of the country along the line of the proposed routes is a part of the plan not to surrender it.

The reference to the "Uruan incident" in the despatches from London to-day requires some explanation. Several months ago a British Sergeant of police, named Behrens, and two assistants crossed the river at Uruan and planted the British fiag on the Venezuelan side. The Venezuelan police tore down the flag, drove the intruders across the stream, and subsequently arrested them. While en route with their prisoners to Ciudad-Bolivar, in the State of Bolivar, they were instructed from Cara

When Farrell died she succeeded to his property, and young Forsythe was the fruit of her accound marriage.

The mother attends to the business, which includes a score of piantations, five stores, and a fleet of trading vessels. She recently refused $500,000 for her property. Forsythe will be her heir, and now he is the actual ruler of the islands, the population of which include some tribes of cannibals over whom the missionaries have never secured any influence. These tribes only indulge their cannibal propensities when they are at war. Their prisoners are then butchered for a Rismarctian holiday feast.

Young Forsythe has a large income, and when he reaches Sydney he will leave orders for a steam yacht that will, if his orders are carried out, be able to run away from any craft in the South Seas.

MISS BAUER'S PERIL. Attacked, She Says, While a Policeman Looked On.

At 10 o'clock last might Miss Lizzie Bauer of 390 Wallabout street, Williamsbirgh, was dragged into an open lot at Union avenue and Richardson street by two men. After a fight lasting several minutes, she says, she fought them off. She was found in the open lot oleeding and with her clothing torn, and was after-ward attended by Ambulance Surgeon Mahr of the Eastern District Hospital and taken home in a precarious condition. Miss Bauer, who is 17 years old and good looking, asserts that during her struggles she saw a noliceman who must have heard her cries if he did not see her struggies, but who made no attempt to assist her. The young woman, who boarded with Mrs. Barberstock at 163 Meserole avenue, adds this remarkable story in explanation of her adventure: "I refused to marry George, the son of the landlady, and for that reason I was compelled Jandiauy, and for these reason a was composited to leave my boarding place. On my way to my mother's house I called on a friend in Greenpoint. I noticed I was followed by two young men who have been in the habit of visiting a sister of the man I refused. They selzed me at the corner of Union avenue and Richardson street. I distinctly saw a policeman during my struggles."

Down the serpentine northward slope of the vest drive in Central Park, rear 106th street, s lone bicycler coasted rapidly at about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to Park Policeman Sweeney's story. The rider was not in regalia, but wore a light suit, with full-length trousers, held in at the ankle by spring clasps. He wore a muffler and a light Fedora hat. Where the road forks, about opposite 108th street, one branch going back to 108th street and Eighth avenue, and the other winding on to Seventh avenue and 110th street, Officer Sweeney stood. "'Do you know who I am?' he asked, and as I said 'No,' he said, 'I'm the Duke of Marlborough.' I told him I couldn't help that, that he had violated the ordinances, and I wanted him to go to the station house with me. He protested against arrest, but readily accompanied me. While we were still at the gate a young man came up and offered to go as a witness, as

me. While we were still at the gate a young man came up and offered to go as a witness, as he had seen the Duke coasting and also had seen the arrest. The Duke also wanted film to go as a witness and offered to exchange cards with him, but as the young man had none the Duke gave none. The man was S. B. Flaxe. We went to the sub-station at McGown's Pass Tavern, where the man armsted repeated that he was the Duke of Marlborough and again proclaimed his arrest an outrage, as he didn't know he was doing anything contrary to law in the way he was riding. He was amonished and discharged.

"When I came back to post Joseph Hodgins, who was working on a bridge near the drive, gave me his name and address, 4:35 East 114th street, and said he was a witness. I never asw the Duke before, and I'm sure I couldn't be expected to know who he was, and he certainly was violating a rule."

In the absence of Sergeant Morgan on a tour of inspection Roundsman Ryan was at the deek in the station. The blotter record of the arrest is timed 1:40, and reads:

"Duke of Mariborough, white, English, (occupation) leisure, single, Plaza Hotel; violation of Park ordinances; officer, Michael Sweeney."

The officers say that his name was twice asked of him, but in answer he only repeated his title.

S. B. Flake, who lives at 320 West 126th street, is a boy apparently about 17 or 18 years old. He said tast night that he happened to be riding his wheel in the Park and saw the coasting and arrest and was called upon by the officer as a citizen witness. He said that the luke said he wanted him for a witness, too, and drew out a card, offering to exchange cards with him. He said that he saw on the card the inscription "Duke of Mariborough," but that when he said he had no card the Duke put his card away again. "Itold them who I was." Flake said, "but I did not want to give my saidress. The Duke asked me for it, and I said I wouldn't give it, and he said: 'Oh, you won't, eh?' And he was for having the police compel me to give it. He said the officer: I at Paulding, O. PAULDING, O., Oct. 18 .- Just after leaving Van Wort, at 6 o'clock this evening, the private car of General Manager Perris of the Ohio Central lines, which had been placed at the disposal of Gov. McKinley and was attached to the Cincinnati, Jackson and Mackinaw specia train coming to this city, either jumped i person who turned the switch after the forward trucks had passed over. Beyond a good shaking up and a scare, there was no damage done. In Gov. McKinley's car there were at the time, besides himself, Gen. Bushnell, Raliroad Commissioner Kirkby, A. B. Holcom, Frank S. Monett, Urban H. Hester, Col. William Cairree, and three or four other men, besides half a dozen newspaper men.

The car had not gone far over the ties before all were on their feet expecting every minute to be overturned. Mr. Kirkby called to all to keep still, pulled the air brake, and in a moment the train had stopped. After some delay the private car was left behind and the train came on to this place. person who turned the switch after the forward place. Mr. Kirkby remained at Van Wert to make a thorough investigation into the cause of the accident. A young man who was standing on the rear piatform of the coach shead of the Governor's car said he saw a man turn the switch and run across the commons.

PURSUING LENZ'S MURDERERS. American Wheelman's Case,

St. Louis, Oct. 18 .- A letter dated Sept. 21 has been received from W. L. Sachtleben, the wheelman who is in Asiatic Turkey looking up evidence to convict the murderers of Frank Lenz. He writes:

"Yesterday I received the cheering intelligence that the Committee on Investigation is about ready to begin operations, and will be headed by Shakir Pasha, a very high official at the Sultan's court. To-day I received the honor the Sultan's court. To-day I received the honor of a call from the Fasha, accompanied by the interpreter of the English (consul, and I and my native interpreter and a friend whom I can safely trust composed our side of a private conference we then held.

"I laid before Shakir the names of the men I had every reason to believe were guilty, and assured him that for corroboration an examination of the locality and its surroundings where Lenz met his death was alone needed. The Pasha promised immediate prosecution of the undertaking.

"Desire for plunder, coupled with a natural hatred for foreigners and Christians, are the supposed reasons for Lenz's murder. The Kurds judged that his nickel-plated wheel was of silver. I trust we may at once proceed to the fail mountain pass where Lenz was assaulted and drowned."

LOUISBURG CROSS STOLEN.

Valuable Relie of Harvard University Taken from the Library Entrance BOSTON, Oct. 18,-The Louisburg cross, which has been preserved for a long time in the Harvard University Library and which, for nearly twenty years, has stood over the entrance, was broken off and stolen on Wednesday night last. This cross is one of the most valued historical relics in the possession of the university. It was exactly one hundred and fifty years ago last spring that the Massachusetts troops, returning from the capture of Louisburg, brought it with them. How it was obtained or how it was dis-posed of at first is not known. It came into the possession of the university, however, a long time ago, and when the library was erected it was set in the wall of the old transept on the side where the stack was subsequently built, and there was an inscription with it telling the few facts of its history.

About eighteen years ago, when Dr. Winsor became librarian of the university, he acci-dentally came upon the cross in the cellar of the library. It had apparently been thrown there carelessly when the stack was erected. It was marked as the "Louisburg Cross" at the time At Dr. Winsor's suggestion it was gilded and placed over the entrance to the library, where It has been ever since.

As yet there is no suspicion as to the identity of the thief. The strength of the bar of iron which was wrenched apart makes it a matter of doubt whether one person could readily have stolen it unassisted

WOMAN IN THE CAB SCREAMED. Man Jumped from the Cab and Ran Out of Central Park,

In a cab going up the east drive in Central Park at 7:15 o'clock last night were a man and a woman. At Seventy-ninth street the woman Policeman England, who was not far away.

came up in time to see a man apparently about 30 years old jump out of the cab. The man waulted over the stone wall shutting the Park off from Fifth avenue and ran out of sight, England drove with the woman to the police station in the Arsenal. She was apparently 28 years old and of good appearance. She said she was Mrs. Fanny White and that she lived at the Bryant Hotel, Fifty-fourth street and Broadway. She did not say who the man was. She did say he had tried to assault her. After her story she drove to the Bryant Hotel. ROASTED HIS WEARY HORSES. Falling to Make Them Go With a Club

PATERSON, Oct. 18.-Eugene Koepke, a team ster for J. Potish of Mountain View, pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals in the Court of Quarter Sessions to day. When called to the bar, the prisoner was crying like a schoolboy. He was remanded to jail. Koepke was driving an overworked and tired team hitched to an overloaded wagon yesterday on the mountain road. Constable Richard Berry says he saw Koepke belabor the horses with to make them go he got bundles of hay, placed them under the horses and started a fire. The horses, too weary to move, stood the beat as in the fire and were being roasted when Berry jumped from his wagon and stamped out the blaze. The horses were severely scorched and

THREE HOMESICK AT SEA.

Wanted to Be Taken Of the Boat for Haytl The little American fruit steamship Laurada, which arrived yesterday, was hailed on Tues Clyde line steamship Delaware, from this city. whose skipper asked Capt. Hughes if he could take three passengers back to New York. Capt. Hughes said that if the passengers were distressed seamen he could give them forecastle fare to this port, but that if they wanted anything better than that, he couldn't take them They evidently decided not to board the Laurada, as the Delaware saluted and went on her course. She is bound for Hayti. While docking at Pier 1, North River, as strong flood tide was running, the Laurada rammed her nose into the pier shed, ripping a big hole in it. She carried away a part of her starboard rail and smashed an iron bitt.

WEDDED IN LUDIOW STREET JAIL. Michael Manning, the Counterfeiter, Mar-rice a Fellow Princaer,

Michael Manning, who was convicted of counterfeiting on Thursday, was married yesterday in Ludlow street jail, where he is confined, to Sarah Ryan, a fellow prisoner. The wedding took place in Warden Archibaid's reception room. The Rev. Father Dougherty officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Manning were recipients of congratulations from the other prisoners. After the ceremony the groom and bride were taken to their respective cells. Hamilton Morgan, who is confined in the jail on a charge of robbing letter boxes, was married n Thursday by the Rev. Dr. Lindsey in the Warden's reception room.

stroyed. The fire originated in a livery stable, and raged up to 10 o'clock to-night. A high wind prevailed almost the entire time. Every business house in the town is either stores are in ashes. Twenty odd residences were burned down. Two churches, two bank buildings, and the Odd Fellows and Masonic halls

QUEER HACKENSACK ACCIDENTS. Something Hit Engineer Lape Electricity Injures a Child.

HACKENBACK, Oct. 18.-Two peculiar acci-dents occurred here last evening. William Lape, the engineer of the Hogers Paper Works, was struck in the face by some object, presumably thrown from a New York, Susquehanna and Western hailroad passenger train, which passed the works as he emerged from the engine room shortly after 6 o'clock. He was knocked senseshortly after 6 o'clock. He was knocked sense-less, and was taken to his boarding house. His face is terribly cut, but no trace could be found of the missile that so nearly silled him.

While the children of Marcel Halstead were playing in the yard of their home on Hudson street, after tea, his little boy's wrist struck against a guy wire running from a stake in the yard to an electric-light pole on the waik. The had dropped unconscious, but was subsequently revived, but has been very weak to-day. It was learned that the guy wire was in contact with the electric-light wire on the hole. Young Hal-stead's wrist was burned where it touched the wire.

Previously Offered by Both Factions,

Senator Hill arrived from Washington at 10 clock last night and went direct to Democratio State headquarters, 27 Madison avenue. He there met Chairman James W. Hinkley, who submitted to him a copy of the findings which the State Committee's sub-committee on harmony on New York county had only two hours before submitted to James J. Martin as the representative of Tammany Hall and to Corporation Counsel Scott as the representative of the State Democracy. These findings are signed by Charles M. Preston of Kingston, Grenville Kane and John F. Gaynor of Syracuse, and Chairman Hinkley of the State Committee,

They are in substance as follows: The State Democracy should withdraw its candidate for Congress, William J. Browne, in the Tenth district, where Robert A. Greacen is the Republican candidate and Amos J. Cummings is the Tammany candidate.

It should also withdraw these ten candidates | Dist. | Dist. | Dist. | 10 - James Oliver. | 16 - | 11 - Max Wustrow. | 18 - | 19 - Alexander S. Williams. | 18 - | 14 - John J. 10 John J. Kelcher.

11 Adolph Heinrich.

12 Edward A. Esseman.

14 Jacob Kunzenman.

15 John J. Walsh.

Tammany should withdraw these three candidates for Senator: Dist.
13 Bernard F. Martin. 19 Louis W. Schultze.
15 Franklin Blen. Also these candidates for Assemblyman: Dist. 13-P. F. Trainor. 15-Thomas Meyer. Dist. 19 -James Hagen.

In the Fifteeeth Senate district and the Fifteenth Assembly district, in which all caudi-dates withdraw, the Grace men are to have the naming of the new candidates, whom both factions must support. Elsewhere both factions are to support the candidate left in the field. Is will be seen that the whole Senate field is covered. The arrangement as to the remaining Assembly districts were not given out.

All day long at Democratic State headquarters nothing was heard but talk about the adustment of the legislative muddle. Early in the day Tammany, according to agreement the night before, submitted its proposition to Chairman Hinkley and other members of the subcommittee of the State Committee. Tammany was willing to divide the legislative representation from this city on the basis that the Committee on Contested Seats proposed to adopt at Syracuse: that is, the Grace folks to have onefifth or nearly-two Senators and seven Assemblymen.

The conditions of this proposition were that Tammany should withdraw two candidates for Senator and seven candidates for Assemblyman, and endorse Grace Democrats in the districts; the Grace men, on the other hand, to withdraw 10 candidates for Senator, 28 candidates for the Assembly, and their candidate for Congress sgainst Amos J. Cummings, and endorse the Tammany candidates. The districts where Tammany candidates would be withdrawn were not named, although much would depend on that. It was said, though, that the districts accorded to State Democracy candidates would be safely Democratic.

The State Democrats also, according to agreement, submitted their proposition to Chairman Hinkley and the sub-committee. It was that Bernard F. Martin, Tammany's candidate for Senator in the Thirteenth, must pull out, and the State Democracy's candidate, Lawrence E Sexton, must receive the united nomination; that Thomas F. Grady, Tammany's candidate for Senator in the Fourteenth, must pullout, and John J. Cullen, the State Democracy's candidate, must receive the united nomination; that Tammany's candidate for Assembly in the Fifteenth, Thomas Meyer, must pull out, and that their candidate, John J. Walsh, must re-ceive the united nomination; that in the Fifteenth Senate district, Franklin Bien, Tam-many's candidate, must be withdrawn, and William H. Law, the State Democracy's candidate, receive the united nomination; that Tammany's candidate for the Assembly in the Eighteenth, A. J. Galligan, must be withdrawn, and the Grace candidate, Michael J. Cruise, receive the united nomination, and, finally, that Tammany's candidate for the Senate in the Eighteenth. Maurice Featherson, should be withdrawn, and their candidate, James Mechan, receive the united nomination. The State Democrats added that they would support John F. Ahearn, Tammany's candidate for Senator in the Tenth; Samuel J. Foley. Tammany's candidate in the Twelfth; Jacob A. Cantor, Tammany's candidate in the Twentieth, and Charles L. Guy, Tammany's candidate in the Twenty-first.

The two propositions, the one from Tammany and the other from the State Democrats, were then overhauled by the sub-committee of the State Committee. It took them all the afternoon and evening to come to a conclusion. Chairman Hinkiey then handed a copy of the committee's findings to Mr. Scott for the State Democrats and another copy to Mr. Martin for Tammany. Both organizations will consider them to-day and give their answer some time before Monday midnight. In any event the State Committee proposes to fix the responsibility for any failure to agree to its findings. The State Democracy leaders profess to be first. They say they cannot get Williams, Cullen, or McManus out of the field.

MEETING OF THE CABINET. The Cuban Situation and Other Foreign Questions Considered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.-The first Cabinet meeting since the President's return was held to-day, all the members being present. The to-day, all the members being present. The meeting lasted two and a half hours. The Cuban situation and many matters of foreign policy, as well as of domestic administration, occupied the attention of the President and his confidential advisers. Each ('abinet officer carried ever a portfolio filled with papers requiring the President's consideration, and, notwithstanding the unusual length of the session, a very large pile of documents remained unacted upon when the Cabinet adjourned. As the President is going to Atlanta, there will be no further mosting until after his return.
